The Euro-Arab Foundation for Higher Studies

WHO WE ARE

The Euro-Arab Foundation for Higher Studies (FUNDEA), based in Granada (Spain), is a highly specialised institution working in the fields of research, cooperation and training.

The Foundation's mission is to promote scientific, cultural and economic relations between Europe and the Arab world through the dissemination of scientific and humanistic knowledge produced in universities and other centres of scientific research or artistic creation, whether local, national or international, in order to contribute to strengthening dialogue between Arab and European states.

The Foundation focuses on the promotion of studies and research, as well as platforms and forums for discussion and debate. Through partnership agreements, the Foundation maintains relations with educational, cultural, research and economic institutions in order to strengthen ties between the countries of Europe and the Arab World.

All the information about our projects:
<https://projects.fundea.org/en/home/>

RESEARCH AND PROJECTS DEPARTMENT

The Research and Projects Department of the Euro-Arab Foundation focuses on the development of research programmes and activities aimed at the promotion of democratic rights and values, peaceful coexistence and social cohesion, valuing the richness of diversity, processes of social inclusion and integration, and the defence of the rights of minorities and vulnerable groups. All of this from a cross-cutting human rights and gender perspective. Proposals are regularly planned in the areas of governance, human rights, international cooperation and security.

AREAS

Research in Societies, Human Rights, Cultural Diversity and Migrations:

- Respect for and protection of Human Rights
- Promotion of cultural diversity
- Migration processes and migrants' rights
- Dismantling human trafficking networks
- Combating hate speech and hate crimes

Research on Radicalisation, Prevention and Security:

- Preventing and countering violent radicalisation
- Security risk and vulnerability analysis
- Possible links between terrorism and organised crime
- Analysis of disengagement and deradicalisation processes
- Protection of places of worship

TRANSFER AND COMMUNICATION

Transfer of research results, products, data and information between different stakeholders. The objective is to generate social and educational impact through activities aimed at disseminating knowledge, experience and skills.

RESTORATIVE AND VICTIM- CENTRED APPROACH TO MITIGATE HATE AND (VIOLENT) EXTREMISM

VicTory contributes to the effective and coherent implementation of legislation and practises that protect victims' rights, adequately support victims throughout the process, and avoid secondary victimisation. Through a victim-centred approach, it provides key practitioners with know-how and practical tools to better understand and interact with victims of hate crimes and (violent) extremism. It will promote and guide the implementation of restorative practices.

OBJECTIVES

To build a victim-centred approach. To improve the effective and coherent application of legislation and good practices, such as restorative-led, to uphold victims' rights, mitigating secondary victimisation. To enhance the capacities, intervention, support, and cooperation of key practitioners (criminal justice professionals, victims support workers, and case managers.)

HAMPERING HATE SPEECH AND DISINFORMATION THROUGH AI TECH

Hatedemics aims to enable NGO/CSOs, media professionals (fact-checkers and journalists), public authorities, and youngsters as activists to respond to online hate and fake news, with a particular focus on contrasting those pernicious and under-studied phenomena that lie at the crossroads between hate speech and disinformation. The project will empower these target groups to counter instances of hate speech and hate crimes that are rooted in disinformation and affect several vulnerable groups.

OBJECTIVES

To develop and validate in 4 Member States the Hatedemics Platform, design and deploy interactive training and educational paths, informed by a commitment to EU values and rights, raise awareness and fostering active participation of EU-27 citizens.

PREVENT AND COUNTER INTERSECTIONAL DATA DISCRIMINATION

DATA EQUALITY focuses on data-driven discrimination and how to prevent this through multi-agency cooperation. It aims to develop a shared European methodology for CSOs, LEAs, and judiciary agencies that will allow them to cooperate more effectively in the collection, management analysis and exchange of information regarding the phenomenon of data discrimination, at the local, national and European levels.

OBJECTIVES

To assess current methodologies and challenges in collecting, managing, analysing, and exchanging data on discrimination in Europe. To provide new settings for cooperation among LEAs/Judicial bodies, CSOs and discrimination experts. To develop a new methodology to be applied to AI-and-OSINT based tools.

STANDING UP AGAINST HATE IN THE EU

The primary goal of STAND-UP is to enhance collaboration among various organizations to combat hate crimes by introducing a fresh inter-institutional model spearheaded by public authorities. By utilizing Open Source Intelligence (OSINT) methods and tools, STAND-UP aims to enable public authorities and CSOs to pinpoint areas requiring intervention, identify vulnerable groups, and assess the intensity of online hate speech.

OBJECTIVES

To establish common definitions of hate crime; standardize reporting procedures, deepening understanding of the phenomena of hate speech and crimes, including the feelings behind them; strengthen support for victims; design & implement training for CSOs, LEAs, prosecutors and judges.

July, 2021

The TRACE project focuses on raising awareness of the importance of European cultural heritage through education and lifelong learning, supporting skills development, social inclusion and critical thinking. The indirect target group is children aged 6-12. The partners choose the best quality children's literature from the European countries involved in this project and the selected stories are translated into the languages of the partner countries, as well as into English, and workshops are created for them.

PARTICIPATORY APPROACHES TO PROTECTING PLACES OF WORSHIP

PARTES strives to enhance the safeguarding of places of worship in European nations by creating a thorough prevention model that is evidence-based, inclusive, and participatory. By employing an evidence-based and participatory method along with a societal approach, it particularly focuses on enhancing collaboration between public authorities and faith-based communities, organizing awareness-raising campaigns, conducting training sessions and workshops, and sharing and evaluating best practices and tools in this area.

OBJECTIVES

To map threats to religious communities, assess vulnerabilities, share best practices, establish inter-communication, develop security measures, conduct trainings, raise awareness on extremism targeting places of worship, and engage the wider population in prevention strategies.

RELIGIOUS COHABITATION IN A MORE NUANCED, EMPATHIC WAY

The project centers on research and innovation related to historical peace treaties, conflict resolutions, and modern depictions of religious coexistence in culture and media. By delving into past peace efforts, it seeks to deepen the understanding of how religious disputes have been addressed in diverse traditions. Through involving teenagers in creating docutubes (online films), the project aims to inspire active involvement in exploring various perspectives on religious coexistence.

OBJECTIVES

To examine different discourses on religion across platforms like school manuals, museums, TV, YouTube & political speeches, explore efforts to bridge religious gaps, historical peace treaties, and tolerance edicts showing past success; understanding these peace processes offers insight into contemporary political and secular religious principles.

SOLUTIONS TO ENHANCE INTERFAITH PROTECTION OF PLACES OF WORSHIP FROM TERRORIST DANGER

SHIELD aims to protect Christian, Jewish and Muslim places of worship from terrorist attacks in 11 countries of the EU, enhancing cooperation between public and private actors, raising awareness of the danger of terrorism, and developing new or upgrade methodologies and solutions to protect places of worship and mitigate the effects of attacks. Both the capacity of the Member States and the EU itself will be improved in the management of risks related to terrorism, the protection of people and buildings.

OBJECTIVES

To conceptualise solutions to protect places of worship and, more generally, religious buildings from terrorist threats. To connect EU public and private actors, including representatives of the Christian, Jewish and Muslim communities, security practitioners, LEAs, municipalities, experts in risk detection and technological partners.

A RADICAL MODEL OF RESILIENCE FOR YOUNG MINDS

ARMOUR's goal is to combat societal polarization by enhancing the resilience of individuals, communities, and vulnerable groups like children and youth. The aim is to foster interaction and collaboration among various local entities from public sectors such as law enforcement and social services, focusing on assisting vulnerable groups to prevent extremism through cooperative approaches. The project will develop a toolkit for frontline practitioners to utilize in mitigating polarization among children and youth.

OBJECTIVES

To promote interaction and cooperation among different stakeholders by organizing the experimental labs in which practitioners and members of vulnerable communities have trusted interactions; to develop and promote concrete tools targeting vulnerable groups which key actors can use when working with vulnerable youth.

Efforts to solve the problem of violent extremism often rely on inadequate strategies that can fuel further extremism. The EU-funded PAVE project aims to advance evidence-based knowledge on violent extremism in the Middle East, North Africa and the Western Balkans. The project analyses the drivers and contexts of violent extremism, focusing on factors of community vulnerability to ideological and behavioural patterns of radicalisation. It also assesses the relevance and effectiveness of preventive initiatives to enhance community resilience.

OBJECTIVES

The interface between religious, political and ethnic/sectarian extremisms. The interaction between religious and state institutions. On- and offline narratives and (de-)radicalisation. Transnational interactions, including impact on and from Europe.

DISRUPTING THE TRAFFICKING IN HUMAN BEINGS CHAIN

VANGUARD aims to strengthen the fight against trafficking in human beings at the nexus of advanced technological solutions, understanding, awareness raising, and training in order to disrupt the trafficking chain at an early stage and address the culture of impunity, with a particular focus on sexual and labour exploitation, and forced criminality. This will be achieved through developing a modular and trustworthy suite of tools for detecting, identifying, investigating, and preventing online THB activities and at (border) checkpoints.

OBJECTIVES

To develop improved and trustworthy AI-based innovative tools and solutions for detecting, identifying, investigating, preventing, and overall disrupting online-facilitated THB activities; enhanced decision support & investigation methodologies and easy-to-use suite of tools obtained through the captured intelligence picture.

DISRUPTION OF THE DIGITAL BUSINESS MODEL OF TRAFFICKERS

INTERCEPTED seeks to revolutionize the digital landscape of combatting Trafficking in Human Beings (THB) by enhancing the digital capacities of law enforcement and judicial bodies. To achieve this goal, it concentrates on disrupting the trafficking chain at two crucial points: recruitment and advertisement. This strategy considers the diverse methods employed in language, platforms, targets, and strategies, which depend on the victims' profiles and the nature of exploitation.

OBJECTIVES

To design an early interception tool specifically targeting the recruitment of victims and advertisement of services, establish a common European mechanism for the detection and reporting, strengthen multi-agency cooperation and rapid cross-border responses and ensure successful use of digital evidence in court.

COUNTERING HUMAN TRAFFICKING THROUGH THE ANALYSIS OF BIG DATA AND OPEN SOURCE INTELLIGENCE (OSINT)

The use of the internet has been integrated into the business model of trafficking in human beings (THB), giving rise to new forms of exploitation that, according to the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) GLOTIP 2020 Report, facilitates access to and recruitment of victims, while allowing for the anonymity of perpetrators and profiteers and the opacity of financial transactions.

OBJECTIVES

As an extension of the European UNCHAINED project, BIGOSINT develop and test advanced, intelligence-led tools to enhance internet-based human trafficking investigations, focusing on the various roles played by the cyber-environment in the trafficking chain.

DISRUPTING HUMAN SMUGGLING AND TRAFFICKING NETWORKS THROUGH MONEY TRACING

The dynamic nature of trafficking in human beings (THB) and the plurality and complexity of its forms make it difficult to investigate. However, these highly lucrative crimes are very difficult to operate without leaving an economic footprint. UNCHAINED aims to improve the investigative capacity against THB, organised and financial crime, to use financial enquiries and macro data analysis in suspected cases.

OBJECTIVES

Strengthen the capacity of public authorities and private companies in identifying suspicious financial activities and promote standardised reporting procedures for close cooperation with law enforcement agencies. Create a European network of experts and trainers that will broaden the scope of training in the longer term.

ENGAGING CITIZENS AND COMMUNITIES IN SOLIDARITY

The project aims to address the solidarity related challenges of our society through service design and co-creative methods. It will engage migrant women to work alongside professional designers to create solutions to challenges of belonging and solidarity. The impact will be seen in empowering migrant women, enhancing their sense of belonging, and fostering positive narratives. It will contribute to broader societal understanding and inclusive policies.

OBJECTIVES

To provide a model for co-creation that fosters migrants' belonging. To engage migrant women who have been in the host countries for more than 5 years, addressing the gaps in integration efforts for this group. To create meaningful outputs widely disseminated and implemented. To explore barriers and resilience strategies migrant women face.

To achieve this, the project collaborates with migrants, refugees, public sector services, NGOs, and other stakeholders to co-create enhanced Information and Communication Technology (ICT)-enabled services. By placing research-users at the core of its strategy. The project aims to enhance and tailor interfaces for accessing essential public services to meet the specific needs of migrants and refugees.

OBJECTIVES

To aid refugee and migrant integration, the plan is to co-design ICTs, create a flexible framework, offer job and skills matching tools, improve refugee access to public services, introduce a co-design methodology, and test ICTs for streamlined public service access and community integration.
